Work Relief Projects Halt In New Castle

Mayor Says Failure Of The County Commissioners To Act Forces
Halt

NO RELIEF WORK
IN CITY MONDAY

Cessation Of Work Follows
Failure Of City-County
Parleys Of Week

Declaring the city has exhausted funds for carrying on relief work and stating that the commissioners of Lawrence Co.
have not given any decision toward assuming the burden, Mayor Chas. B. Mayo today ordered a cessation of work relief effective today.

Council and the commissioners were scheduled to meet yesterday afternoon but the commissioners informed the council that they had not been able to get in touch with the counsel for the county controller.

No Decision By County
Mayor Mayo said that for two weeks the city has endeavored to gather some definite decision from the commissioners and yesterday's hearing having been called off plus the failure to receive a decision, work cessation has been ordered.
At a hearing last Tuesday counsel for the commissioners and the coun-trollers agreed that they could find no law which would permit the county to pay the insurance rates on labor and to pay for foreman's hire, requested by the city.

The city had been doing this for more than a year and a half according to the mayor and he and his colleagues declare the county should assume the burden as the funds of the city are now exhausted.

Mayor's Statement
The mayor's statement follows:
"For two weeks the council has been trying to get the county commissioners to arrive at some definite result but to no avail. The city has exhausted all monies it can use for this purpose. The city has carried on this expense for a year and a half. As the commissioners have not shown any willingness to take up this burden, which should be paid for out of the welfare tax, we are stopping all work projects today. No men will be called to work Monday."

GYPSIES SELLING
RUGS ARE ORDERED
OUT OF THIS CITY

Report was received from the East
Washington and Court street district yesterday that there were people selling rugs from house to house.
Officers investigated and found that it was a group of gypsies offering the rugs for sale. As they had not taken out any mercantile license, they were ordered out of the city.

A smaller drinking fountain has

LONDON, June 17.—Encouraged by the world's almost unanimous acceptance of President Roosevelt's proposed tariff truce, Secretary of State Cordell Hull today instructed American economic experts to draft a series of tariff proposals for submission to the world econo-

The proposals, to be put before the economic commission of the parley, will concern methods of approaching the tariff problem and will put into concrete form the general recommendations made by Secretary Hull in his address before the plenary conference.

Tariff Discussions
It was regarded likely the Americans would suggest tariff reductions by multi-lateral rather than bi-lateral negotiations, and also deal with regulation of import and export quotas and other trade barriers.

Before he left for Chequers to lunch with Prime Minister J. Ram-

Windsor Castle for the royal garden party staged for the delegates, Secretary Hull discussed the proposals

GUNMEN MOW DOWN 5 SEEKING TO LIBERATE RECAPTURED CONVICT

Gun Battle Takes Place At Entrance To Kansas City Station

FOUR OF SLAIN ARE OFFICERS

Prisoner In Their Custody
Also Shot To Death;
Gunmen Escape

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 17.—Five men were killed, including a department of justice operative and the chief of police of McAlester, Okla., in an unsuccessful attempt by five gunmen to effect the release of Frank Nash, notorious convict, just outside the main entrance of the Union station here today. Nash also was killed, as were two city detectives.

In the most brazen attempted delivery of a prisoner in this city's colorful history, the gunmen accosted department of justice men and detectives as they emerged from the station's south portal. With hundreds of persons looking on in the line of fire, a gun battle in which a hundred shots were fired ensued
when the officers refused to give up Nash.

Gunmen Escape
When the smoke of battle had cleared away, all of the gunmen had made good their own escape, and Nash and four officers lay dead or dying under the lofty canopy of the union station.

Manacled to Nash and lying prone beside him was Raymond J.
Caffrey, department of justice operative, who accompanied the prisoner from McAlester, Okla., near where he was captured yesterday.

Rushed to a nearby hospital, Mc-Caffrey died a short time later. His brother officers, Chief of Police Ott
Reed of McAlester, and Frank Hermansson and "Red" Grooms, local detectives, were killed instantly.

Two other local department of justice men, F. P. Lackey and R. E.
Vetterli, were hit by flying bullets and rushed to the hospital in an ambulance. Whether their injuries are serious has not been ascertained.

Hundreds See Battle
Hundreds of unwilling witnesses jammed the union station as the gunmen accosted McCaffrey and demanded he turn Nash over to them.

Nash was being returned to the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kas. He was suspected of being one of the chief plotters in a prison break there two years ago in which Warden White was kidnapped and held as hostage for several days.

When the gunmen attempted to take Nash by force, McCaffrey whipped out his revolver and blazed away. The desperados answered in kind, and an instant later the entrance of the union station resembled a battle field with victims dotting the sidewalks.

Obviously the gunmen's attack had been well planned and based on accurate information as to the strength of the guard in charge of their captive companion.

Each gunman covered his man with such dexterity that before re-

Fear Mattern Is Lost On Flight To Nome, Alaska

Intrepid American Flier Left Khabarovsk, Siberia, For Alaska Wednesday

MAY BE DOWN ON ALEUTIAN ISLAND

(International News Service)
NOME, Alaska, June 17.—The mysterious silence of the Arctic closed in today on "Smiling" Jimmy Mattern, daring Texas aviator who hopped off Wednesday from Khabarovsk, Siberia, on the dangerous
2,400-mile flight to Nome, Alaska.

Despite growing fears that he may have met with an accident, veteran Nome aviators asserted there was a good chance that he may have landed safely on some uninhabited Aleutian island.

Mattern's gas supply was estimated to have been exhausted more than 30 hours ago.

The fact that there were few if any boats on the icy Bering sea near Mattern's path made it doubly difficult to organize any search for the intrepid solo flier who sought to be the first man to encircle the globe
by air alone.

MAUG AND TURPACK WAIVE EXTRADITION

Bandits Retaken At Lakewood, O.

Declare They Will Resist Return To Western Pennsylvania Prison

CAPTURE PREVENTS NEW HOLD-UP EFFORT

(International News Service) LAKEWOOD, O., June 17.—MAUG, leader of the notorious band of desperadoes, and his chief aide, EDDIE TURPACK, were to be returned today to Western penitentiary in Pittsburgh from where they made a sensational escape April 27.

The convict hoodlums changed their minds this morning and decided not to fight extradition to Pennsylvania. Immediately preparations were started to take them back.

Flanked by half a dozen Pennsylvania detectives armed with rifles, pistols, machine guns and tear gas, Maug and Turpack were to start retracing their route to Pittsburgh this morning. It was expected they would again become just two numbers behind prison walls by early afternoon.

Maug and Turpack, serving life terms for murdering Constable Port Moses and 60 to 120 years additional for robbery, were recaptured in this suburban Cleveland village yesterday as suspects in several minor holdups.

They were preparing to rob a telephone office when two detectives thought their actions suspicious and took them to jail. Bertillon records unmasked their identities.

GUNMEN KILL FIVE SEEKING TO LIBERATE RECAPTURED CONVICT

enforcements could arrive all of the officers were either dead or wounded.

Spectators Paralyzed. Amazed spectators stood by paralyzed and not daring to interfere while the desperadoes made their getaway. The gun battle broke so suddenly and struck such terror in the hearts of witnesses that it was difficult to get any two or three to agree on exactly what happened.

Some said there were only three bandits, but the majority agreed there were five. Likewise, there were conflicting accounts of their getaway. Some witnesses claimed they fled in a motor car and others said they disappeared through the crowd afoot.

Some averred the attack was planned and executed by the most notorious of all southwestern desperadoes not behind prison bars—Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd. For the past two weeks Floyd has been taunting law officers and threatening them first at one point, then at another. The number one desperado was reported seen at Deepwater, Mo., 90 miles from Kansas City, at midnight. Officers admitted he easily could have reached here in time to execute the attempted delivery, but did not entirely accept this theory.

Nash escaped from the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kas., two years ago. He had been a member of the notorious Al Spencer gang that once held the southwest in terror of its desperadoes.

His capture was effected near Hot Springs, Ark., and he was being returned to prison when he was killed. Nash and Operative McCaffrey, a few moments before the gun battle. Outside the union station a government car awaited their arrival, ready to transport Nash the remaining 30 miles to Leavenworth.

Vetterli and Lackey had left the car to meet the party.

Gunmen Killed Prisoner. Out of the maze of conflicting accounts told by witnesses who escaped the rain of bullets came one story that the gunmen deliberately killed Nash themselves, when they found their carefully planned delivery had been thwarted.

One gunman was reported to have taken careful aim at Nash as the exchange of deadly missiles reached a climax.

Another report was that the gunmen came, not to free Nash, but to kill him for double-crossing them. Detectives did not place much credence in this speculation, for two of the desperadoes had tried to west Nash from Caffrey before the latter started the pitched battle by opening fire.

More lives could not have been imperilled had the gunmen selected the busiest downtown intersection to enact their drama of death.

The Union station, one of the most spacious in the country and linking grand trunk lines of many of the most important transcontinental railroad lines, was jammed to the overflowing as the massacre occurred.

Not only the usual morning crowd of departing and arriving patrons were on hand, but in addition a large surplus of travelers who had taken advantage of cut-rate excursion rates to make week-end trips.

Miraculously, none was injured so far as could be ascertained in a quick checkup of all major hospitals an hour after the smoke of battle died away.

About To Drive Off.

Caffrey, manacled to Nash, and Chief Reed and other members of the party had elbowed their way through the maelstrom of swarming humanity and were about to drive away in the government car.

Attracted by the spectacle of a man in irons being led through the vast corridors of the station, a crowd of curious persons attached itself to the party and proceeded in its wake as near as officers would permit.

As Nash and two officers entered the parked car, the gunmen, believed to number five, broke a path through the crowd and thrust their guns under the noses of the officers.

Caffrey already had seated himself in the machine beside the manacled Nash. At a glance he took in the seriousness of the situation and with his free hand jerked his revolver from its holster.

He leveled it at the nearest intruder and was in the act of tugging at the trigger when Nash jerked his arm and the bullet went wild.

This was the signal for the pitched battle. One gunman in front of the government car fired pointblank and at close range thru the windshield. It hit Caffrey.

Several more shots followed the first from the same weapon and Caffrey keeled over in the seat. He died a short time later in a hospital several blocks away.

By now the local detectives and Operative Vetterli had snarped into action and their own guns barked defiance at the unexpected attackers who appeared in complete control of the situation.

Realizing they could not make away with Nash while chained to the fallen department of justice man, the desperadoes each picked their man among the officers and drilled them with lead.

German-Soviet Russians Argue

(International News Service) LONDON, June 17.—Behind the scenes of the world economic conference, a violent dispute broke out between Germany and Soviet Russia today over Germany's demand the world recognize her right to colonial expansion.

Maxim Litvinov, Soviet commissar for foreign affairs, took sharp issue with the German demand, interpreting it rightly or wrongly as an "obvious inference" Russia ought to be split up and parceled out to Germany as its colonies.

28th Division Veterans May Ask Gen. Shannon To Run For Governor

While there is nothing political about the makeup of the 28th Division veterans organization, out of the two day reunion being held here today and tomorrow may come action that will lead to one of their number being a candidate for governor of Pennsylvania in 1934.

Sometime Sunday morning, at a business session of the veterans, Lieutenant William L. Cosel will present a resolution calling upon Major-General Edward C. Shannon to be the Republican candidate for governor in 1934, and appealing to the leaders of the Republican Party in the state to support his candidacy.

As the brigadier-general of the 55th Infantry Brigade, of the 28th Division, General Shannon was the idol of his men. "One Yard" Shannon he was affectionately known to them and he never asked his men to do something he wouldn't do himself. That affection has lasted through the years since the war and four years ago when General Shannon was nominated as Lieutenant Governor the men of the 28th supported him solidly across the state.

The resolution is a forthright document. In it the veterans draw attention to the fact that there exists at the present time in Pennsylvania need for leadership in government, a need for a leader who by the force of his personality and ability harmonize the various factions and give to Pennsylvania the efficiency in government to which she is entitled.

The resolution lauds General Shannon's work as a soldier, as a citizen and as a statesman and publicly calls upon him to declare himself as a candidate and also calls upon the leaders of the Republican Party to get behind the candidacy of General Shannon.

Attending the reunion today are many who served under the leadership of General Shannon. Lieutenant Cosel was an officer in the 11th Infantry, one of Shannon's regiments, and scores of other doughboys here today followed "One Yard Shannon" over the top.

There appears to be no doubt that the resolution will pass. Sentiment among the Keystone veterans today indicated that as far as they were concerned the election was over. They want Shannon for governor and want the world to know it.

AMERICANS WILL DRAFT PROPOSALS ON TARIFF TRUCE

with Ralph Morrison and Representative Samuel McReynolds, members of the American delegation, leaving them in London to guide the work of the experts.

Not Discouraged.

Stoutly refusing to be discouraged by denials and disclaimers from Washington, the French delegation continued to insist today that a currency stabilization agreement is just around the corner.

Great Britain and France, the French spokesmen declared, are agreed upon a stabilization plan and are merely awaiting American approval before putting it into effect.

The French delegates appeared to wish to give the definite impression that only the Roosevelt administration in Washington was standing in the way of an agreement. If favorable reaction is received from Washington, the proposal will be placed before the financial commission of the economic conference next week.

Pressure Exerted.

Washington, June 17.—Having manoeuvred the United States out of more than $100,000,000 on the June 15th debt payments, Europe today sought to force this government's hand on the question of currency stabilization at the world economic conference.

Word was received in official quarters here that tremendous pressure is being brought to bear by France at London to force the United States into an agreement for immediate stabilization of the dollar. This government, however, has no intention of being forced into such an agreement prematurely, it was stated on high authority.

Reports Denied.

Furthermore, London reports that immediate stabilization of currencies was near at hand were described as premature.

In fact, they were regarded as propaganda designed to make it appear that this government was desirous of immediate stabilization. Officials declared President Roosevelt has no intention of being manoeuvred into such a position.

The president, it was said, is suspicious that some of the European nations are seeking to place this nation in a position where it can be blamed if the stabilization plan fails through.

Some of Members.

Among members and guests from outside the city who were in attendance at the reunion were the following: William J. Guthrie, John Guthrie, Avonmore, Pa.; J. O. Brakeman, F. S. Nash, Union City; L. G. KIDNAPERS OF ST. PAUL MAN SEEK $100,000 is prominent in St. Paul social and industrial circles. A telephone call to William Dunn, business associate of Hamm, first disclosed the kidnapping.

"We have just kidnapped Mr. Hamm," said a man's voice on the telephone. "You will hear from us later."

Note Is Sent.

This was followed by a note which Dunn received yesterday afternoon. The message stated that Hamm was being held for $100,000 ransom and added:

"He will be killed if the cash isn't paid over."

Hamm had added a signed postscript to the note, begging his associates to pay the ransom immediately. Detailed instructions were given for payment of the ransom.

Knowing that the millionaire's life would be endangered by a vigorous hunt for the gang, police were proceeding cautiously with the investigation, allowing the victim's associates to deal directly with the kidnapers to effect Hamm's release.

Veteran Kidnapers.

Shown a picture of Sankey, the cab driver said he was the same man who hired him to deliver the note. Sankey has been sought for the abduction of young Bohn here last year and the kidnapping of Boettcher in Denver.

The note delivered to Dunn gave specific instructions that a brewing company truck contact the kidnapers for payment of the $100,000. Only one man must be aboard the vehicle, the instructions read, and he would be met on the highway by agents of the kidnapers riding in an automobile.

Second Kidnaping.

Sankey has managed to elude a police search for more than a year. His wife, the mother of two children, was arrested in Denver and brought here for trial in complicity in the Bohn kidnapping here. Yesterday she was acquitted, but was immediately rearrested for federal authorities in connection with the Boettcher kidnapping.

Ray Robinson was recently sentenced to 25 years in prison for the Bohn kidnapping. The abductors had seized young Bohn at his home here, held him captive a week, and released the boy on payment of $12,000 ransom.

CHINESE MAIDEN SPEAKS AT PARTY

What was arranged as a garden party turned into a house party on Friday afternoon when the Department of International Relations of the New Castle Woman's Club brought their season to a close.

Mrs. William Cosel, who had headed the department since its inception, greeted the members of the department, the officers of the club and a few guests, thanking the women for their co-operation and the intense interest they had taken in the study of world problems and she asked the same enthusiasm for the new department head, Mrs. R. E. Tannehill.

An unusually interesting afternoon was in store for the women. For Miss Rosalie Quill of Pittsburgh a Chinese girl, was the speaker and after a piano number by Miss Mary Moore, Miss Quill entered the living room, prettily attired in a pink sate dress, heavily embroidered in Chinese fashion, over green silk trousers, with embroidered white satin slippers on her feet, and with her smoothed down black hair and her almond shaped eyes, she formed a pretty picture of a native Chinese girl.

Miss Quill, however, was born in Pittsburgh and has been educated in the schools of that city, now being a student in the University of Pittsburgh. She has a most brilliant mind and is well informed on most cultural subjects.

She took the women with her on a trip to China, which she and her family made last year remaining in China for one year, where she attended a village school to study the Chinese language. Her story of visits to cities invaded by the Japanese was most graphic, leaving there she took the women through rice fields and into her home, telling of the customs of the native Chinese in the southern part of China where her family ancestors came from.

Her story was most interesting and at conclusion of her talk she was asked a great many questions by the women.

At conclusion of the talk, Mrs. R. S. Tannehill, the new chair to the International Relations Department, greeted the women and said she would arrive to carry on the splendid work begun by Mrs. Cosel. Dainty refreshments were served by the department members.

A REAL PUBLIC SERVANT

In the promotion of Howard B. Richards to the managership of the Chattanooga Water Company, New Castle suffers a very real loss of a useful public servant. Trained in the business of serving the public through his company, he carried the idea of service into the civil life of this community in a way that will be sorely missed.

Quite naturally his friends here rejoice at the mark of appreciation by his superior officers. New Castle knows his abilities and the officers of the company of which he is a part have merely corroborated that opinion, but that corroboration takes out of New Castle a man whose place will be difficult to fill.

No project that had for its aim the bettering of the city in which he lived asked his support in vain. Out of a busy life he found time to give freely of his energies and abilities, so freely that in the past five years his name has become a synonym for public service.

It is men like Howard B. Richards that are going to make for better relations between public service companies and the public they serve. He believes literally in the theory of service to the public and as he leaves, every citizen of New Castle owes him appreciation for the things he has done as a citizen of this city.

He deserves success for he helps to make successful the projects that promote civic well being. He will always have friends for he is a friend. He leaves here with a title that can not be purchased with money, the title of A Real Public Servant.

WELCOME, KEYSTONERS

New Castle welcomes the veterans of the Twenty Eighth Division today as one welcomes the friends of his sons. For New Castle sent a lot of sons into the division that wore the red keystone on the shoulder, during the World War.

Today and tomorrow the veterans of the division are meeting in New Castle in reunion, living over again the days of 15 years ago, recalling the incidents of the war that have served as steel bonds through the years.

Pennsylvania as a state was and is proud of the records of the 28th Division. Theirs was the job to break the Hindenburg Line, and pitted against them were the crack Prussian Guards and the Brandenburgers. The record of the division at Fismes, at St. Mihiel, or in the Argonne is written in letters of burnished gold. No division boasts of a finer record, no division acquitted itself more honorably.

Today the boys of 1918 are meeting as mature men. The years have brought them responsibility and maturity, but the years can never erase the memory of those days in France when the red keystone stood for valor, and courage and undiluted Americanism.

Thrice welcome are the sons of the 28th, the division called by General John J. Pershing, the "Iron Division." New Castle will always hold an affection for them and for the things they did when action was needed.

THE SUN IS RISING

Gradually the sun of economic happiness is rising in New Castle. The announcement of D. S. Pyle yesterday that the entire twenty mills of the New Castle plant of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company will operate fully, adds another bright ray of that sun and strengthens a confidence that has been generated in the past thirty days.

New Castle's life blood flows from the heart of the furnaces. When those furnaces are red, and the long stacks throw out their clouds of smoke, New Castle is pulsing with life. In a short time every one of the sixty stacks of the Shenango and New Castle Works will be wreathed in smoke and black as those wreaths may be, they look like silver linings to all of us.

The announcements of the past weeks coupled with the announcement of yesterday are heartening to the business man, the professional man, and to every one who lives in New Castle and Lawrence County. They lead inescapably to the conclusion that here in New Castle the sun is shining.

NEW FORESTS FOR OLD

While the country has been lamenting the denuding of its hills and plains of their virgin timber, new forests have grown to take their place wherever they have been unmolested by fire or man. There are yet few such stands as the first settlers found on these shores, but there is acreage enough to assure posterity a timber supply.

The uninformed usually think of the forests being concentrated in a few states in the Far West, the East and Middle West presenting to them a vision of cities and fields and the South a vision of cotton fields and scrub oak. They need not motor far from any city in those sections to discover their error.

There is Pennsylvania, for example. Though the second largest industrial state and an important agricultural state, its forests cover 13,000,000 acres.

Nor are all the government-owned forest lands in the wide-open spaces of the West. A sixth of Pennsylvania's forest acreage is owned by the federal, state, county or municipal governments, and these holdings are being added to each year.

New York state has large forest areas, and some of the country's largest stands of virgin timber are in the South, where extensive lumbering operations are still in progress. Within recent years the federal government with state aid has established expansive forest preserves in the Shenandoah and Great Smoky Mountains national parks below the Mason-Dixon line. It also owns and is enlarging a large forest in Pennsylvania.

So if the woodsmen of the West spare no trees and plant none where they cut, the day may come when the Westerner will have to go East to find trees and game.

Any kind of diet, even spinach and lettuce, seems to be fattening to a fat woman, and reductive for skinny women.

Further oddity of the American police technique: As soon as the investigation extends eight miles into the suburbs it becomes a nationwide search.

New Yorkers are worrying because tiny pests called "termites" are said to be eating the foundations from under their homes. But this isn't much worse than having the mortgages eating the roof from over your head.

JUST A GROUCH.

You say I have a grouch? That I must have gotten out of the wrong side of the bed?

Don't say that. It isn't true. All I want is to be let alone. . . . Don't speak to me, don't bother me, just let me alone.

If you say I have a grouch, I may seize upon that as an excuse for having one. . . . Don't give me that excuse.

Just ignore me. After a while I'll come through and be my normal self. . . . If you let me alone too much, I may even object to that. I can't be sure.

You know how it is. A fellow has his ups and downs. Sometimes he's high, sometimes he's low. There are times when he can stand anything, other times when he's like the princess in the fairy story, who slept on seventeen mattresses, but couldn't sleep at all if there was a pea under the lowest one. (Funny thing about peas, isn't it? People say, "As like as two peas in a pod." That's ridiculous. Just take a look at two peas sometime. They're very different indeed.) . . . Well, I'm NOT like that fussy princess. . . . Maybe I didn't sleep very well. Maybe a cat yowled me awake in the middle of the night. Maybe the covers slipped off. Maybe it was something I ate. But it doesn't make any difference. I'm all right. I haven't any grouch. Anybody can see I haven't. . . . Of course I'm not whistling and grinning like a silly ape, but a fellow can't be doing like a clown all the time, can he? . . . There are times when he's serious, when he realizes this world is a serious place—with problems and worries and heavy obligations—and when he realizes that, it makes him sort of solemn and thoughtful.

And then people come around and say he has a GROUCH! . . . Yeh? Well, I haven't. . . . Hear the birds singing. Just a squeak and peep, that's all. See the pretty flowers? (I hope a snail eats them.) Observe the nice green lawn? (If you fall down on it you'll get green stains all over your new pants.) See the airplane flying through the fleecy white clouds? (And what an unearthly noise he's making.) NOW I HAVE GOT A GROUCH! (That's what happens every time when you try to cheer up a grouch. The only thing to do is let him strictly alone—like nettles and wet paint.)

THE GOSSIP

Are you unfair in circulating evil reports about people?

Why are you so anxious to pass on a story that defames character?

You don't believe the story, but you have heard it and so repeat it. The fact that you have mentioned it may give a false story the semblance of truth and the next one tells for a fact, adding something, possibly.

Many reputations have been ruined by gossip like you.

Actions misinterpreted, no foundation in fact, and told by a scandal monger as fact and something serious.

Unfavorable reports travel much faster than the good things that might be said of a person.

There have been instances in your own life, harmless in themselves, which might have ruined your reputation if they had been repeated and enlarged as is usually the case in gossip.

You want others to be charitable, but are you charitable toward others?

Gossip and evil report often injure the one who tells it and repeats them more than the one of whom they speak so unkindly.

Besides, the gossip leaves a bad taste in the mouths of those who hear and often causes the gossip to be avoided.

THE LASTING GAINS
If life be nothing more than money getting,
Then sad, indeed, are we;
And none should blame us for our constant fretting
At money poverty.

If only riches count with us, to lose them
Is life's supreme pain,
But there are those who constantly refuse them,
Some sweeter joy to gain.

They seem to see beyond the petty penny
And deep within the clay
Splendors worth claiming and achievements many
The soul may bear away.

They deal with kindness and they build with pity,
And much joy they take,
Not from tall buildings which adorn a city,
But from friends they make.

The sky means something to them, and the beauty
Of tree and flower
Lightens the dark, drab days of dreary duty
And many an hour.

They give themselves to song and merry laughter,
High faith and things of worth,
And shape their souls to face the long hereafter
With courage on the earth.

There's one consolation. If the people ever decide for public ownership, they can just have Mr. Morgan sign a transfer.

Maybe the money changers haven't been driven from the temple, but they've at least been driven into the open.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 7:31. Sun rises tomorrow 4:30.

It is with sincere regret that we learned that Howard B. Richards was going to leave New Castle. It has been the pleasure of the Hints and Dints man to have enjoyed his acquaintance and friendship during his stay in this city. We also rejoice with him in his promotion to a bigger job. He held twenty non-paying public jobs in New Castle and he held them well. It will take about that many men to take his place on those jobs. If we were leaving New Castle and so many people sorry enough to say so, we would think it a great honor. The whole state of Tennessee is to be congratulated!

One of our readers had a tough time of it last week. He received a letter from a man who said he would shoot him on sight if he went out with the man's wife again. He had to break four days because the bird forgot to sign his name.

The best way to stop a practice that is illegal is to nab a few of the violators and soak them a fine of about $25. That soon gets spread around and sure has its effect.

There is but one rule of conduct for a man—to do the right thing. The cost may be dear in money, in friends, in influence, in labor or in a prolonged and painful sacrifice. But the cost not to do right is far more dear, for you pay in the integrity of your manhood, in character, in honor and in truth. You forfeit your soul's content, and for a timely gain you better the infinities.—Alger.

Two golfers playing an important tie were annoyed by an important front of them, obviously new to the game.

At one hole there was a particularly long wait. One of the offending couple dawdled on the fairway, while his companion searched in the rough.

At length the waiting couple on the tee could contain their impatience no longer.

"Why don't you help your friend find his ball?" one shouted indignantly.

The idle golfer in front turned with a cheerful smile.

"Oh, he's got his ball," he replied. "He's looking for his club."

Will Rogers was just breaking into the newspaper writing game when he was hooked up by the McNaught Syndicate to report the National convention of 1924 with William Jennings Bryan and Samuel G. Blythe. Bryan doing the heavy statesmanship, Blythe doing the politics, and Rogers furnishing the comedy.

On the day the convention opened, Rogers and Blythe walked over to the convention hall together.

"Sam," said Rogers, "when we get there, introduce me to Mr. Bryan. I have never met him."

Bryan was in his seat when Blythe and Rogers got there, and Blythe said: "Mr. Bryan, this is Mr. Will Rogers, who is our colleague in reporting this convention."

Bryan arose and put on his hand. "Mr. Rogers," he said, "I have heard a lot about you and I am glad to meet you. We are both reporting this convention for the same employer, but along different lines. I write serious things, Mr. Rogers—serious and you write comical things—comical."

"Well, Mr. Bryan," said Will, "perhaps we are both mistaken."

Why Is It The Fellows Who Forever Insist That The Country Owe Them A Living Persist In Sticking Around The Cities.

Now they have conceived the idea that if they raise the rate of the income tax they will get more money from the so-called plutocrats. They would not. The so-called plutocrats are the back bone of this Nation. They are the ones whose brains and whose money keep the machines going. If the government takes a large slice of their income in a year when they are prosperous, they do not by the same token pay them back anything in a year of depression. The law maker likewise by raising the rate of the income tax cause the men of enterprise and money to put on the brakes. They do not care to make a lot of money and give 75 per cent of it away to the Government to be used for no good purposes.

The Barrymores, John and Lionel were recently offered a very fine radio contract by a concern with the Radio advertising bug. The offer was declined, for the reason, the Barrymores said, that if they accepted it, they would have to give to the government between seventy and eighty per cent of their earnings this year and they would not do this. They thanked the company for their kind offer, but could not see why they should work for nothing because of the income tax.

There is a great How-to-do now because Mr. Mitchell, late of the National City Bank of New York, tried to save himself from the payment of a great income tax. His wife is just as much a legal entity as any other person and if he saw fit to sell stock to his wife at a market price on December 31st and buy it back from her at the market price the following February 1st, why should he not do it?

A merchant, having goods inventoried at a million dollars on January 1st, 1933 finds himself with a depreciated lot of goods on December 31st, 1933, depreciated to the extent of $250,000. He may show that on his income tax statement, and take advantage of it, but it seems as though a man who had $200,000 worth of stock on January 1st and the stock was depreciated by December, so that it was worth only $100,000 cannot take advantage of this depreciation on his income tax statement unless he sells the stock in the open market.

Curtis As Publisher Ranked Among Great Public Leaders

Knowledge Of Average Taste And Ability To Develop Talent Through His Publications Recognized In Comments On Death

Cyrus H. K. Curtis, magazine and newspaper publisher, dead at the age of 83, is remembered as one who rose from poverty to great wealth through his ability to understand the average taste of the American people, and his judgment in selection of writers and editors who could most brilliantly meet the public demand. Success through character is placed in his epitaph, and his service in molding public opinion, his support of worthy enterprises and his advocacy of high standards are lauded by the press.

"He will be remembered as a great publisher and as a great public benefactor," declares the PHILADELPHIA EVENING BULLETIN, with a tribute to his "important service in stimulating the national spirit of individual development," and the estimate that "his great benefactions were conceived with the definite purpose of advancing welfare, cultural as well as material, individual advancement and achievement, and of widening the opportunity for individual advancement and achievement." That paper mentions especially his "endowments of the Drexel Institute, of Temple University, and of music and his development."

He is called by the WASHINGTON EVENING STAR, "one of the gentlest and the most lovable of men," who had "the power to touch hearts far beyond the normal circle of an ordinary individual's influence." Recognizing in him "a force for cultural progress in the homes of the land, a civilizing factor," the historian of the common folk of the United States will find in the files of his magazines the materials to compose the chronicle of the age. "We can be no better source," it may be that the secret of the thing he did lay in his essential Americanism.

Mr. Curtis' talent in "proving that there are romance and charm in the everyday business world, and that the average American family is interested in reading about them," is attested by the JERSEY CITY JOURNAL, with the thought that "the unquestionably had much to do with the molding of public opinion, and to the lasting credit of his name, he never abused his influence by stooping to the morbid or the sensational."

The LEXINGTON LEADER avers that "the truly significant thing in the story of his life is the simple fact that his success was due to hard work, great industry, imagination, foresight, the capacity to gauge public opinion, and those qualities of character which gave him the trust and affection of all who worked with him in his creative efforts." The RUTLAND HERALD credits him with "high ideals and a strong sense of public responsibility," while the OSHKOSH DAILY NORTHWEST holds that his publications "had a deep and lasting influence on the lives and habits and customs of the millions of Americans who read them." The MIAMI DAILY NEWS, "the best of all his gifts is the example of a life that was successful, even as measured by the standards of the money-worshiper in the days of fabulous fortunes, and was untouched by so much as a breath of scandal."

"His life proves," according to the SALT LAKE DESERTER NEWS, "the commonest of all lessons, that ideas are and always will be the best currency to buy power and influence in the world," and the DANBURY NEWS-TIMES says that he "lived longer, worked harder, made more money and was more useful than most have the privilege of being." The SAN ANTONIO EXPRESS offers the judgment: "Himself unschooled in books, he reached millions of readers, informed them, and helped mold and direct their thought. That service was kept up through the half-century while the nation was being transformed from an agricultural land into an industrial empire." The HOUSTON CHRONICLE calls him "America's core, a representative of the America that was and which may never be again," and sees in him a publisher "devoted to the interests of that restless and aggressive middle class which was then in the process of leaving the farm and building the present industrial civilization of the nation."

"Into his group of publications," states the BUFFALO EVENING NEWS, "were drawn editors and writers who fairly may be said to have held and often to have set the highest standards of their time. Mr. Curtis was one of the most noteworthy men that ever appeared in the difficult field to which he devoted himself. Others recognizing the technical merits of his work as a publisher are the LINCOLN STATE JOURNAL, the HARTFORD

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

A TAX WHICH STEALS

The law makers in Washington have a curious idea about how to raise money with which to pay for their extravaganzas.

There had been a postal deficit, and they conceived the idea that if they received $200,000,000 from the sale of two cent stamps, they would obtain $300,000,000 from the sale of three cent stamps. They did not. They only received about $185,000,000 from the sale of three cent stamps.

Now they have conceived the idea that if they raise the rate of the income tax they will get more money from the so-called plutocrats. They would not. The so-called plutocrats are the back bone of this Nation. They are the ones whose brains and whose money keep the machines going. If the government takes a large slice of their income in a year when they are prosperous, they do not by the same token pay them back anything in a year of depression. The law maker likewise by raising the rate of the income tax cause the men of enterprise and money to put on the brakes. They do not care to make a lot of money and give 75 per cent of it away to the Government to be used for no good purposes.

The Barrymores, John and Lionel were recently offered a very fine radio contract by a concern with the Radio advertising bug. The offer was declined, for the reason, the Barrymores said, that if they accepted it, they would have to give to the government between seventy and eighty per cent of their earnings this year and they would not do this. They thanked the company for their kind offer, but could not see why they should work for nothing because of the income tax.

There is a great How-to-do now because Mr. Mitchell, late of the National City Bank of New York, tried to save himself from the payment of a great income tax. His wife is just as much a legal entity as any other person and if he saw fit to sell stock to his wife at a market price on December 31st and buy it back from her at the market price the following February 1st, why should he not do it?

A merchant, having goods inventoried at a million dollars on January 1st, 1933 finds himself with a depreciated lot of goods on December 31st, 1933, depreciated to the extent of $250,000. He may show that on his income tax statement, and take advantage of it, but it seems as though a man who had $200,000 worth of stock on January 1st and the stock was depreciated by December, so that it was worth only $100,000 cannot take advantage of this depreciation on his income tax statement unless he sells the stock in the open

Playgrounds Are To Open Monday

Installing Of Equipment For Four Local Playgrounds Is Being Rushed

VOLUNTEER STAFF ANNOUNCED HERE

ELLWOOD CITY, June 17.—Preparations for the opening of four Ellwood City playgrounds on Monday morning are being rushed today by the Playground Commission and Superintendent of Schools Vaughn R. DeLong. The playgrounds are to be ready for serious use by 9 a. m. Monday.

Mrs. Ray Wilson has again been selected as general supervisor of the playgrounds which are being operated this year by the Board of Education.

Much of the sporting and handicraft equipment has already been received so that work can begin immediately. A fine campaign for the summer has been outlined by Mrs. Wilson and the Playground Commission.

A meeting was held the latter part of this week of all persons interested in volunteering their services for the supervision of the four different playgrounds. The duties of the instructors were clearly outlined at this time. The Shelby outdoor swimming pool should be ready for use in about a week—or just as soon as thorough employees complete the installation of a chlorinator. There will be proper supervision at the pool.

The volunteer staff for the first week in the playgrounds is announced as follows: Shelby—Miss Adelle Mondell and James Timpano, others, Miss Phyllis Thomas, Miss Emma Perry, and Miss Dorothy Stinson; Lincoln—Miss Kathryn Koach and Arthur Howell, others, George Curry and Miss Bernice McLaughlin; North Side—Miss Margaret Felt and William Felt, others, Ralph Powell, Miss Ruth King, Miss Jean Hunter, and Miss Margaret Fanesalski West End—Miss Helen Crowley and Mike Dunn, others, Mrs. Louise Fisher and Mrs. Judd C. Turner. Others on the list are: Mrs. Thelma Trehanne, Mrs. Fanny Deemer, and the Misses Agnes Wilson, Eleanor Cox, Minnie Perry and Frank Zeigler.

The first two named in each of the playgrounds are to be ready for work Monday morning. The others will fill in when vacancies occur. Practically a new and different schedule for instructors will be made up every week so that the volunteers will know their assignments.

The Phalanx club of this city will work in conjunction with the playgrounds by taking care of the tennis courts and its equipment.

Anyone interested in volunteering their services is requested to get in touch with Mrs. Ray Wilson or any member of the playground commission, and work will be found for them.

The playgrounds will be operated the same as last year with the exception that there will be no evening session on Mondays for a period. The hours are from 9 a. m. to 12 and from 1:30 to 5 p. m. daily. Of course the playgrounds will be closed all day Saturday.

Hooks Fish, Dives In To Pull It Out

ELLWOOD CITY, June 17.—Patrolman K. M. Musser of the Ellwood City Police Force was taking no chances in losing his biggest fish catch of the season Friday morning when his line began slipping, so he dove in clothes and all to land it.

Patrolman Musser with former Officer Frank McDermott were on the fishing trip together yesterday in the Slippery Rock Creek at Slippery Rock when the humorous incident occurred. A fifteen inch sucker was hooked on Officer Musser's line when it began to give away from the reel. Elated over this catch and fearing at the same time that he would lose it, he did not hesitate in diving in. It was with some difficulty that he again located the line and managed to come to shore with it and the catch.

Later that night Officer Musser remarked that he had never tasted such delicious fish.

FEDERAL MINT IN

NEW ORLEANS NOW

MAKES GOOD JAIL

NEW ORLEANS, La.—Walls four feet in thickness, lined with one-inch steel plates, which for a century kept millions of dollars of Uncle Sam's bullion safe from criminals, today are proving just as dependable in keeping prisoners imprisoned from society who have trespassed on the nation's laws.

The old New Orleans federal mint built 98 years ago on the impregnable architectural lines of a fortress, has been converted into a prison to house offenders of federal laws who have been sentenced to terms of less than a year and those facing trial.

Maybe we're wrong, but some of this indignation about ill-gotten millions sounds a little wistful.

Then, too, there's the fierce bright light that beats upon a loan.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Congress in its special session enacted measures which will save $850,000,000 to $900,000,000 a year in the current expenses of the government.

Rep. Buchanan (D) of Texas, chairman of the appropriations committee said today.

The saving, he declared, establishes a new record for economy by Congress in a single session.

But for the veterans' compromise which was forced in the dying hours of the "Roosevelt special session" the economies would have neared the billion mark, Buchanan said.

Program Limited

While critics declared the special session set a record for extravagance, passing one bill carrying more than $3,600,000,000 Buchanan said this extraordinary expense for the Roosevelt recovery program is limited.

"From an economy standpoint this had been a wonderful session," said Buchanan. "The large appropriations to support the president's program are only temporary while the saving effected should be permanent."

Save Millions
"In my judgement we will save between $850,000,000 and $900,000,000 a year in the expenditures of the government and had it not been for the veterans' fight we would have saved a billion. That saving will continue throughout the years."

"If the nation becomes prosperous there will be demands upon Congress to restore many of the savings. Congress should not yield, especially in the administrative and personnel cuts."

Buchanan estimated the savings of the independent offices supply bill at $373,000,000, chiefly as a result of economies effected in the veterans' economy act.

Tremendous Saving
The savings made by the special session include $150,000,000 in salaries of government employees, $150,000,000 in reductions effected under the economy rider to the independent offices supply bill, including retirement of employees of 30 years service, reduction of flying pay, authorization of furloughs of government workers, and denying the usual year's sea pay to graduates of the Annapolis Naval Academy who are not commissioned.

The president's consolidation order sent to Congress in the closing days of the session is estimated to save $25,000,000, but since no action was taken on it, the order probably will be suspended until next session. More consolidation orders are to be submitted by the president when Congress reconvenes.

WHEELING, W. Va., June 17.—Benny Brosky, 26, described by police as an ex-convict, was held today on a charge of robbery and assault after his alleged victim, Harry Morrow, 32, of New Castle, Pa., claimed Brosky beat him until he was unconscious, stripped him of all his clothes and left him lying in the rear of a building in the wholesale district.

Morrow was attired only in a Helen Wills sunshade when found by police. Brosky's story was that Morrow offered to bet him 50 cents he could lick him, and that the fight ended with Morrow down and out. The wager not being paid, Brosky said he took Morrow's clothing in payment. Brosky was arrested at the home of a sister on Wheeling Island, asleep with Morrow's clothes for a pillow.

Brosky was sentenced to jail for 30 days on the assault charge and was held in defaults of $2,000 bond for larceny. Morrow, his clothing restored, was released after the hearing. While his injuries were found to be superficial, both eyes are swollen nearly shut and his face is lacerated.

Police said Brosky has served sentences in the West Virginia prison at Moundsville and at an eastern penitentiary for robberies.

Breeds to be exhibited will include purebred Jerseys, Guernseys, Holsteins and Milking Shorthorns. There will also be classes for grade females of the same breeds. Classes are available for animals of all ages. The privilege of exhibiting cattle in this show is extended to all people in the community.

GRADE EGGS TO MEET DEMANDS OF MARKET

Some markets will pay the producer premium prices for carefully graded products. Then, too, the more attractive appearance of carefully selected and graded products generally results in increased consumption.

Poultrymen who make every effort possible to encourage increased consumption of their own products also aid the industry as a whole. If badly soiled, ungraded eggs of poor quality are sold to the consuming public, increased consumption of eggs cannot be expected.

According to a report issued on egg marketing, the per capita consumption of eggs per year in Canada was 313 eggs, in Belgium 213 eggs, and in the United States 204 eggs. The regulations in Canada controlling the marketing of eggs are probably more rigid than in any other country.

Each poultryman can make an effort to reduce the number of soiled eggs to a minimum by using clean litter on the floor, gathering eggs frequently, using clean nesting material, wiring the dropping boards and keeping the birds confined the greater part of the day. Regardless of all efforts to produce clean eggs, there will always be a few that are soiled, but they should not be marketed in that condition. To clean soiled eggs, use a knife or coarse steel wool to remove the foreign material stuck to the egg shell and then wipe the eggs with a damp cloth.

Eggs should be graded according to size, exterior appearance, and interior quality. Each poultryman will exercise good judgment in grading his eggs according to the demands of his market.

OLD STRAWBERRY BEDS MAY BE REJUVENATED

Many growers in Lawrence county follow the practice of keeping their strawberry beds in bearing two or three years. This gives varying degrees of success in financial returns as compared with the practice of making a new planting each year and fruiting the plants only one year.

Numerous experiments prove that fruit harvested either the second or third year is not equal to that picked the first bearing year, either in quantity or quality. The variation depends upon several factors, and in many cases growers are justified in rejuvenating their plantings for additional crops. This work is best accomplished as soon after harvesting as possible. Such action allows a longer growing season and consequently a larger number of plants with a resulting larger yield.

Immediately after harvesting the tops should be moved and the leaves burned or removed with a rake. A number of ways are employed in removing the old plants and working up the soil.

Several furrows are tilled between the rows to reduce the width of the rows. This method will be more applicable during wet seasons, but the use of a spring-tooth harrow or a smoothing harrow will be found most efficient. The harrow should be set to remove plants and work the spaces between plants. As soon as enough plants in the row have been removed with the use of the harrow, the cultivator can be employed to narrow the rows and work up the spaces between rows. A row of plants a foot wide should be ample for the development of a matted row by fall.

Application of a nitrogen-carrying fertilizer, such as nitrate of soda or sulphate of ammonia, at the rate of 200 to 250 pounds an acre should be made. This material can be applied most satisfactorily before the planting is worked with the harrow as this operation will aid in mixing the fertilizer with the soil.

Cultivation should be continued as in the case of newly set plants.

HELP TURKEY POULTS TO AVOID CROWDING

Crowding of young turkeys may be brought on by numerous causes. The first few days they may not know where to find the heat and will crowd into the colder parts of the house to keep warm. This can be prevented by penning them close to the heat for the first day. If the house gets too hot, they may crowd into the corners to keep cool. Too much heat, as well as too cold temperatures, can cause crowding.

Brooder houses should not be overcrowded with poults. Crowding is more likely in larger flocks. A 10 by 12 foot house can easily accommodate 150 poults. More can be placed in a house of this size, but the crowding problems increase accordingly.

Young turkeys start to roost at an early age. They begin to sit on perches when a few days old. Some flocks sleep on roosts when they are three to four weeks old. After they roost at night, the crowding problems are usually solved. Early roosting does not seem to cause serious trouble with crooked breast bones, provided the ration is complete.

CURB VIRUS DISEASES TO SAVE RASPBERRIES

Virus diseases can ruin a good raspberry plantation unless steps are taken to control them.

These destructive pests are red and yellow mosaics, leaf curl and streak. The symptoms of these diseases are plainly visible on leaves, stems and berries.

A light and dark green or a yellow and green mottling distinguish the two mosaics. Dwarfing and curling of the leaves indicate the presence of one of the leaf curls, while a downward twisting and a blotched mottling of the leaves and a streaking of the canes characterize the streak disease.

Besides causing dwarfing and frequently killing of the plants, the virus diseases also make the berries crumble and give them an acid taste. Such fruit is unmarketable.

Control of virus diseases is effected only through use of disease-free plants. If, however, when diseased plants are first found they are scorched with a blow torch and then removed, the disease will be somewhat reduced. As a further precaution, raspberry growers are urged to remove all wild plants within 1000 feet as these plants can transmit the diseases to the domestic plantation.

Fertilizers applied to increase the vigor of the raspberry plants will not shield them from the diseases nor help them to overcome the infection. However, the symptoms of virus disease stand out more prominently by contrast in well-cultivated plantations, since the symptoms are mixed up with physiological conditions in poorly cared for plantations.

A series of meetings will be scheduled in many Pennsylvania counties this summer to demonstrate the correct way of roguing diseased plants.

Salesman Fined By Mayor Mayne

Chief Of Police Haven Reports A Surprising Lack Of Co-operation Here

Charles Goldberg, of East Liberty, Pittsburgh, one of a group of five salesmen, who were operating in the city the past few days, selling shirts and neckties, was this morning fined $20 for failure to take out a mercantile license and $300 under the city ordinance, which requires that persons entering this city to sell merchandise of any kind, must register with the police and also provide a bond, if required. He paid the $20 fine and he was released pending the final disposition of the other case.

Goldberg claimed that the others of the group, including his father, took orders, and he made deliveries. The mayor informed him that a checkup had been made and it was found that the others made arrangements for him to show the goods, which he sold.

The orders found in possession of Goldberg, according to Chief of Police John Haven, showed that the persons patronizing this group included doctors, dentists and various business and professional men.

He made this statement: "Mayor Mayne has been endeavoring to give the fullest protection to the business and professional men of this city other communities, who come in here to take business away from them. I am afraid that he will presently get tired of attempting to do this, because of the fact that he is being accorded a ten percent co-operation for his 100 percent effort to protect the business interests of this city. If it were not for a few merchants and housewives, who have been co-operating, he would have been unable to do as well as he has. He cannot be expected to accomplish the desired results unless he has the co-operation of a majority of the people. It is up to the people here to determine just what they want."

SHE LOSES RIBBON BUT WINS BATTLE

Over on South Jefferson street, near the public square, pedestrians are carelessly shuffling over a little scrap of red ribbon, unaware that a few hours ago it was the pride of "Lucy," a Maltese cat. Nor are they aware that this same ribbon was the cause of a vicious fight this morning, in which Lucy lost her ribbon but received the honors of battle.

The story goes that a dog, a low-slung, curly haired model, decided that Lucy was putting on the ritz by wearing a ribbon, she not having Mayflower ancestors, and all. So he took it upon his own shoulders to divest the Maltese of her ornament.

And that is exactly what he did. But it was not a victorious victory. It was marred by scratches on the head, neck and back that will take many a lick of the tongue to cure.

Events Last All Night
Automobiles carried the contestants to the camp early yesterday. They made camp, after which continuous tests were conducted by officials and Scout leaders. Scoutmasters and assistants, together with observers from troops not represented, were present as the contest took place. Events opened at four p. m. Friday afternoon and lasted until nine o'clock this morning.

Scout Executive H. G. Horton, one of Mr. Child's chief aides, said seven of the nine patrols participating made the standard grade of 800 points for jamboree events. He reported that all performed well.

The boys returned from camp today.

Parents Visit Girls At Camp

Last Evening "Visitor's Night" At Y. W. C. A. Girls' Camp

Supper was served to 100 campers, counselors and parents Friday evening in the dining room of Camp East Brook. Thirty-five were special guests.

It was "visitor's night" at the Y.

W. C. A. girl's retreat and needless to say, the girls were glad for the reunion with their parents after not seeing them for nearly a week. However, it is reported from camp today that not a single girl had an attack of homesickness last night after the parents had gone.

A special feature last evening which proved very amusing to the parents was a stunt. A "cabin" presented a stunt. A mullah game in front of the camp was enjoyed by a number of the girls. Later crackers and milk were served, the parents left, and the crew of young campers had the day.

Tonight is being referred to as "Indian Night." And that it will be in every sense of the phrase. There will be Indian songs, war dances and a campfire council. The girls of the camp are divided into the following tribes: Navajo, Ojibwa, Algonquin, Mingo, Iroquois, Mohawk, Seneca, Cayuga. Each tribe bunka together in one cabin.

The Algonquins won the honors yesterday for their neatly kept cabin, and were privileged to choose an officer of the day, Jane Davis. That about sums up the camp news for today, except that a birthday party is being planned for this evening in honor of Nancy Lou Gordon who is seven years old today and Mrs. Alice Lewis, the camp cook, who is responsible for all those good dinners there.

Girls Reserving Places At Camp For Next Period

Registration Coming To Y. W. C. A. For Coming Camp Period

Registrations are commencing to come in quite rapidly for the second period of Camp East Brook, according to a statement this morning from Miss Marguerite White, business counselor at the Y. W. C. A. camp.

The second period will get under way on June 26 and will last for a period of 12 days, ending July 8. This will be for girls between the ages of 8 to 14 years and probably will be the final period for the summer unless present plans are changed.

Quite a number of the girls who are at camp at the present time expect to stay over for the second period. Others are advised to make their reservations as soon as possible.

Philadelphia Fans Are Up In Air Over Trading Whitney-Lee

Phillies Have Saved Franchise, But Have Lost All Merit, Stars Given Way

Boston Handed Over Knothe And Schumacher And Wad Of $75,000 In Cash

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, June 17.—On the printed records of yesterday, it was only one of those preposterous trades of two men who can play baseball for two others who can't but the Whitney-Lee for Knothe-Schumacher deal between the Phillies and Braves promises further developments of an interesting nature, as the police say when they know nothing. Not the least of these has to do with the general belief that it may save Bill McKechnie's job and lose Burt Shotton's, although it is doubtful whether either had a great deal to do with what took place.

Hardly less interesting is the fact that the Philadelphia ball club henceforth is resigned to taking no more than a passive part in the National League situation. It didn't want Knothe and Schumacher. It wanted the money that went with them; had to have it, in fact, for a desperate attempt to defraud the inevitable.

The Phillies could have sold Chuck Klein and practically closed their gates for the year. They decided to be less ostentatious and keep the gates open. They could keep them open all night and not even the homeless would come in out of the wet. If you want the version of the Philadelphia papers, some of which seem to be rather violently affected by what has transpired, they seem to think that the Phillies have saved the franchise and lost all merit.

If that's the case, then McKechnie and the Braves should benefit accordingly, although the former's role as a beneficiary is not clearly defined at this time. In the first place, Charles Adams is making ready to take nominal as well as actual charge of the club. In the second place, Judge "Amiable" Fuchs is understood to be on his way out. In the third place, McKechnie is finishing a long term contract with a wholly reasonable but not very sensational record. He hasn't it, seems, been able to make a great deal out of nothing.

McKechnie On Spot.
But the Braves aren't a "nothing" ball club today; not with Whitney and Lee. So William will be expected to produce or go to his trying for somebody else. If he doesn't stay, the club may be turned over to Rabbit Maranville, who has become impressed with the seriousness of life since the general hilarity of those old days with the Cubs. If he sticks to it, the Braves at least will find one problem solved. They won't need a manager for the manager.

As for Shotton, his number was understood to be up, even with Whitney and Lee on the club. Without them, he doesn't figure to finish until the first week in November.

Heroes-Goats In Big League

(International News Service)

The Hero—Sam Leslie, Brooklyn, drove in two runs and beat his former mates, the Giants, 3 to 1, in his first game in a Brooklyn uniform. The Goat—Hughie Critz, Giants. Missed a homer by failing to slide home after making a long wallow. He was tagged out by Catcher Al Lopez, who stood nonchalantly at the plate with his hands on his hips as though there was to be no play made on the runner.

Brooklyn Wins; Leslie Is Star

Former Giant First Sacker Crashes Homer To Beat His Former Mates

PIRATES BEATEN BY CUBS 9 TO 1

By LES KONKIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 17.—Max Carey manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, today enjoyed a hearty horse laugh at the expense of experts and fans who had belittled his acumen as a David Harum in the baseball marts. On Thursday Carey gave thousands of Brooklyn fans heart failure by trading Lefty O'Doul, leading national league hitter in 1932 and Watson Clark, premier southpaw in the senior circuit last season, to the New York Giants for Sam Leslie, substitute first baseman. Critics who discussed the trade decided unanimously that Max was entitled to a one way ticket to Mattawan.

Leslie Wins Game
Carey's judgment was vindicated yesterday when Leslie, making his first appearance in a Brooklyn uniform, beat the Giants almost singlehanded. He drove in one run with a long fly and later hit a home run to drive the clinching nail in the coffin of his former mates as the Dodgers beat the league leader 3 to 1.

Van Mungo, the Brooklyn fire ball hurler, held the Giants to six hits and outpitched Schumacher and Luque. O'Doul was sent in as a pinch hitter against his former mates but failed to deliver. The setback left the Giants only four points ahead of the St. Louis Cardinals, who were idle.

Pirates Beaten
Chicago's Cubs advanced to within three points of the third-place Pirates by shelling the corsairs 9 to 1, behind Guy Bush's steady pitching. The Bruins laced four Pirate pitchers for 15 hits. Fred Lindstrom, whose acquisition was supposed to mean a pennant for Pittsburgh, was benched for light hitting.

Other Clubs were idle. The eastern clubs of the American League start their Western invasion today with Washington facing a golden opportunity to seize the lead by bowling over the tail end St. Louis Browns while the battered Yankees come to grips with the third-place Chicago White Sox.

Harvard Crew Defeats Yale

Yale Crew Not Disheartened And Hope To Turn Tables On Harvard On West Coast

(International News Service)
NEW LONDON, Conn., June 17.—Smashing under the defeat administered by Harvard in their 71st annual clash on the Thames, Yale's crew today returned to New Haven to rest until Tuesday, when it will begin preparing for the "Western Foughkeepsie" at Long Beach, Cal. Although the Elis were beaten by a margin of nearly two lengths in the four mile grid, they were still confident today of turning the tables on Harvard in the West Coast regatta, a sprint affair.

The triumph of Coach Charley Whiteside's oarsmen was accomplished in a final mile finish that left the impression Yale had rowed itself out in the three miles that preceded it, and when the final challenge came there was no reserve left.

The winner's time 22 minutes 46 3-5 failed to approach a record and was the slowest made by a victorious varsity crew since 1920 when Harvard won in 23 minutes, 11 seconds. Yale's time of 22 minutes, 53 4-5 seconds was also the slowest in many years.

Baer's Wife Is Seeking Divorce

Denies Fact That Miss June Knight Ever Spent Any Time At Honeymoon Ranch

(International News Service)
SACRAMENTO, June 17.—There were no June Knights on the honeymoon ranch of Max Baer in Pastoral Sacramento county.

So insisted Mrs. Dorothy Dunbar Baer, former stage and screen actress whose divorce suit is now pending against Baer, who recently vanquished Max Schmeling in his campaign for the heavyweight boxing championship.

Mrs. Baer, the former Dorothy Dunbar, has established her residence in Sacramento where her divorce suit, charging cruelty, is now pending.

Discussing reported statements of June Knight, screen actress who is admittedly engaged to Baer, that she first met the California boxer on the Sacramento ranch of Ancel Hoffman, one of his managers, Mrs. Baer pointed out that her honeymoon with the Livermore fighter was spent on the same romantic spot.

"I have never met June Knight and, so far as I know, she has never been out on our honeymoon ranch," Mrs. Baer said.

"Good" Posture Not Always Best

Tests Conducted With College Girls Show Good Posture Has Bad Points

Dr. Norman F. Miller, Of Ann Arbor, Michigan, Completes Study

By LEIGH MATTESON
International News Service
Writer

MILWAUKEE, June 17.—"Good" posture in women and girls is as bad for health and physical comfort as "wrong" posture, the American Medical Association was told Friday at the close of its annual convention.

This was proven to a group of investigators who made an extensive study of 302 co-eds at the University of Michigan over a period of four years. Dr. Norman F. Miller, of Ann Arbor, Mich., reported the results.

Silhouette photographs were made of the girls without costume at the end of each of their four years at college, for study and comparison purposes.

Posture correcting exercises were given to the girls with alleged "faulty" posture. Their pictures were compared with previous pictures to demonstrate the amount of "correction" in posture which had occurred from the exercises.

Periodic Pains.

In addition the pictures were sorted over for other data.

The experiment in posture "correction" for the large number of college girls was expected to prove that "good" posture would relieve a large number of those who suffered periodic feminine pains.

There were 145, or 48 per cent in this group of sufferers, at the beginning of the four-year study and exercise period. There were 145, or 48 per cent still suffering from the same conditions at the conclusion of the posture "correcting" experiment.

"The studies," said Dr. Miller, "have created in our mind no small doubt concerning the correctness of our present day ideas of desirable posture for women."

"In fact, the data is convincing against the existence of any relationship between periodic feminine pain and posture."

"There is nothing at all to indicate that good posture (based on present day standards) is any more desirable than poor posture (also based on present day standards)."

Hormone Treatment.
Dr. Miller said that the only positive, new fact which emerged from the study concerned the type of woman which is most susceptible pains.

From a study of the photographs and the girls in person, it was found that those least susceptible to the pains were slightly taller on the average and had fuller breast development, he said.

This was demonstrated during his lecture by slides showing "composographs" drawn from the photographs of 20 girls in each group. The composite pictures showed the variation in silhouette contours.

Dr. Miller concluded that the pain sufferers might respond to hormone treatment that would bring them to full physical development.

Congress Authorizes Roosevelt To Lighten War Veterans Economy

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, June 17.—President Roosevelt was under specific instructions from Congress Friday to lighten the drastic federal economy provisions on compensation to war veterans.

These instructions, written in advance by the president himself, were:

1. To create special boards, a majority of the members of which have no connection with the veterans administration, to review all claims of World War veterans, arising out of disabilities presumptively incurred in army or navy service during the war. These boards were directed to "resolve all reasonable doubts in favor of the veteran, the burden of proof being on the government."

2. To pay the rates of compensation, existing on March 20, 1933, on any claim filed before that date for insurance, pensions, compensation or retirement pay filed until June 30, 1933. These claims will be subject to unlimited reduction thereafter.

3. To pay 75 per cent of the compensation rates, existing on March 20, 1933, to all war veterans in the presumptive classes until their cases have been reviewed.

Limit Reductions
4. To limit the reduction in rates of compensation to World War veterans, with directly service-connected disabilities (the battle victims) to 75 per cent of that paid on March 20, 1933. The president, however, may reduce the degree of disability and put the veteran in a lower classification, before administering the 25 percent slash.

5. To prohibit any suspension or reduction in death compensation due widows or children dependent parents or World War veterans.

6. To insure a pension of at least $15 a month to veterans of the Spanish-American war, the Boxer Rebellion and the Philippine insurrection, who are 55 years of age, 50 percent disabled and in need.

All the provisions for prohibiting reduction in rates to battle victims were abandoned. So were the provisions for limiting slashes on compensation to presumptive classes (shell-shocked, gassed and tubercular victims) to 75 percent of their present rates.

There is a growing demand for tickets to the annual New Castle High School Alumni association reunion on Thursday evening, June 22, at the Cathedral. It was reported today by Myron Rice, chairman of the ticket committee, and his assistants and hopes are held that the reunion this year will be one of the finest ever held by the association.

Cost of the affair has been cut to a minimum and yet the program provided for the evening will be outstanding in every way. Dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock and will be followed by an entertainment program. Dancing will be the diversion provided after the entertainment program.

An excellent orchestra has been secured for the dancing program. Members of the January and June classes of 1933 will be guests of the association at the entertainment and dance. They may attend the dinner event for 50 cents, which is less than charged those attending all the features of the evening's program. The price for former members of the school and their families will be 75 cents for each person.

Those expecting to attend the event should get their tickets without delay to avoid the last minute rush. The tickets may be secured at Lee & McGowan's, Mahoning Pharmacy in seventh ward, Terminal Apothecary, Shaffer & Snyder on Long avenue, Miss Mary Bigley, Weitz Market, Dr. R. C. Gilmore, president of the association, and at the North Hill Exchange.

President Gilmore announced today that Postmaster Lake S. MacNab would be in charge of the ushers and Robert Preston in charge of the door. They are picking their respective assistants.

ROAMING With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

There's no question as to who won the war today. And the answer isn't the M. P.'s. The proper answer is the 28th division, and if you want to argue the case drop out to Castle Beach and find out how wrong you are. The keystone is at the top of the mast today and is staying there until tomorrow night.

Major General William G. Price is one of the guests, and if you were in the 28th you remember him as the brigade commander of the 53rd artillery brigade, composed of the 107th, 108th and 109th field artillery and the 103rd trench mortar battery.

There'll be some anning today and tomorrow. The one about the time the 107th got ahead of the infantry and fired closer to a front line than any artillery regiment had ever done or did after, during the war. Or the time the 107th was taken up into Belgium and was offered the Pine Tree as a shoulder decoration for their work with the 21st division. And refused the Pine Tree so they could keep the red keystone.

Or maybe somebody will remember that night Ed Cross climbed out over the parapet to look for a razor in a dead German's pack, so he could keep his promise to a pal that he would get him a razor.

Or that foggy morning crossing the Vesle river up at Fismes, when Sergeant Chester A. Brenner had a machine gun platoon with him, when suddenly out of the fog, not 50 feet ahead, the German appeared. They outfit to get their guns together the quicker won the argument, and the Pennsylvania gunners won.

Or the night in Augusta, Ga., just before leaving for France, when artillerymen and signal corps men combined to go down town and clean out the Ordinance M. P.'s who suddenly had gotten tough. What a night that was. About 30 of the M. P.'s spent the night in the hospital.

Governor Pinchot Names Members To Public Works Board In Pennsylvania

LOUIS E. STALEY
NAMED CHAIRMAN

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, June 17.—Pennsylvania took its first step to aid President Roosevelt and federal authorities in carrying out provisions of the national recovery bill when Gov. Gifford Pinchot Friday established a state emergency public works board.

It consists of Louis E. Staley, secretary of forests and waters, chairman; Samuel S. Lewis, secretary of highways; Attorney General William A. Schnader, Theodore B. Appel, secretary of health, and John L. Hanna, secretary of property and supplies. W. L. Stevenson, chief engineer of the department of health, was named secretary of the committee.

Make Suggestions
This body will have complete control of the public works projects in Pennsylvania. Their suggestions will be made directly to federal government officials who must approve all work before it may be started.

Although Governor Pinchot was unable to describe the nature of the work to be performed, he said at least two requirements will be necessary. All projects must be of some use when completed and their construction must be immediate. The governor has not received any indication of how much work will be authorized in this state.

Staley will go to Washington tomorrow and submit several projects for approval. They will be listed in a letter Governor Pinchot will submit to the new board.
